INTRODUCTION

United Communities for Transformation (UNICOT) is an environmental conservation organization established in 2019 and Headquartered in Lilongwe, Malawi. We take a holistic, collaborative approach to tackling the country's pressing environmental challenges. By forging partnerships with rural and urban communities, government entities, local NGOs, and private sector stakeholders, we are co-creating innovative, grassroots-led solutions that address the root causes of issues like deforestation, soil degradation, and the devastating impacts of climate change.

Our diverse team, fueled by a shared passion for environmental stewardship and social justice, recognizes that lasting transformation can only be achieved by empowering local changemakers and amplifying their voices.
